Presenting...

MILESTONES

of 1946

SETTING

This is an annual production with our campus, stretching from majestic Acklen Hall, past the white-pillared buildings of the central campus, into club village, as its setting.

CHARACTERS

In the progress of our play, you have found yourselves working from bit parts into leads. You and your friends have worked together behind stage and before the footlights to make this a finished production.

PLOT

The plot began to unfold last fall and developed against the backdrop of the changing seasons with activities on the athletic field, in club village, in Academic building, and in the dorms. Our plot is one phase of a continuous drama.

PROGRAM NOTES

Our purpose is to spotlight our phase of this drama. A program may suggest the framework, but only you who have lived the action can give it form. We hope that MILESTONES will be the program you'll always keep from the play you'll always remember.

*Starring * * *

Miss Catherine E. Morrison, the personification of Ward-Belmont ideals and traditions, to whom the 1946 MILESTONES is dedicated. Quiet authority, quick flashes of humor, understanding, fairness, wisdom, and capability combine to make her one of our most beloved and respected personalities.

Unforgettable is her amazing faculty for remembering each girl's name, her interest and guidance in every campus activity from the first hockey game through Washington's Birthday, May Day, and graduation. She has seen Ward-Belmont grow and has aided in that growth. Knowing her has made us stand just a little straighter and renew our faded resolutions.

Quick flashes of humor

Understanding, fairness, wisdom

Quiet authority

Jo a Lady

Miss Annie Allison, Dean of the Preparatory School for twenty years before her retirement in June, 1945. Miss Annie left upon each of her girls a profound influence during many years of untiring service. Her interests were confined not only to the rounding of education, but to the creating of true ladies. She trained them to live under the pressure of a modern world with an unswerving belief in ideals and an understanding nature, and to meet with calm assurance a world quickly moving into a physical and mechanical realm.

True to her firm belief that aristocracy was a matter of manners and education, Miss Annie set as ideals for her girls throughout the years those of truth, beauty, purity, and courage.

We remember Dr. Linda Rhea

"for those little things—the way her room spelled springtime with the daffodils she loved in place on her desk and the buds of the willow tree outside her window, giving the soft air of a southern spring to her classroom; the nervous little way she tipped back in her chair and flipped the pages of her desk calendar; the quick tilt of her head and the crisp grey hair falling into waves; the small unembellished manner of writing; the way she loved the South; the rise and fall of her voice as she read her favorite poem, 'Rugby Chapel,' and her last gay wishes for a 'Merry Christmas.' ''

Dr. Linda Rhea, head of the college English department, moved for many years behind classes and organizations in a quiet, efficient way which belied the energy and devotion which she had for Ward-Belmont. These are our memories of Dr. Rhea.

Dr. Robert C. Provine

President

By the close of his first year as President of Ward-Belmont Dr. Provine had proven the true value of the qualities he possesses, those of leadership, progressive spirit, and approachable personality, and had charmed everyone by the innate culture and dignity of the Southern gentleman.

A feeling of confidence in him is unmistakably present in the respectful cooperation of his associates and in the students' response to his inspirational chapel talks, to the courtesy that lacks pretense. Supported by these two groups an improved Ward-Belmont is assured under the guidance, directed by wisdom, of Dr. Provine.

Mr. Charles P. Hogarth Dean of the College

Instructor, counselor, and adviser of academic problems is Dean Hogarth, who possesses the ability, competence, and willingness to guide students in their courses of study. His personal interest in the scholastic achievements of each student inspires all to seek a deeper and fuller understanding of knowledge.

Mrs. Susan S. Souby

Principal of the Preparatory School

During her first year as head of the high school, Mrs. Souby has been increasingly loved and respected by the preparatory students. By instilling in them her own interest in campus activities, she has maintained the department's position as an integral part of the school.

Mr. Alan Inwin Dean of Conservatory of Music

All music students working under Dean Irwin's excellent direction will never forget his musical ability, keen wit, and ready understanding. Always conscious of the need for music, he has instigated and led numerous activities designed to increase its appreciation.

Miss Gentrude Casebier Dean of Women

Wisely and graciously handling each student's personal problems, Miss Casebier's friendliness and concern is recognized by all Ward-Belmont girls. Her eagerness to add to the joys of school life has won the appreciation of all.

Mr. John A. Bitzer

Registrar

Vitality and efficiency have been the keynote of Mr. Bitzer's first year as registrar. By organizing a Public Relations Office, he has been instrumental in the circulation of Ward-Belmont news and activities throughout the United States.

Mr. Jimothy C. Donovan

Business Manager

Genial and kindly, zealous and capable, Mr. Donovan successfully manages the intricate financial affairs of the school. His desire to improve Ward-Belmont in all ways has made him a friend to students and faculty alike.

These are the Seniors

who remember first the friendliness of the yellow-tagged girls who led a bewildered group of Mids through the maze of rush week, their first college classes, and those homesick Sunday afternoons; the excitement of returning to familiar faces after Christmas; "the night we made the raid," and that Saturday afternoon when three halls were merged into a class; the realization that Ward-Belmont was theirs, and it would always be a part of them. With spring came magnolias, long, lazy nights at the club, and anxious waiting materialized when Ward-Belmont girls stood, that sunny morning, to hear the chimes in the tower announcing V-E Day.

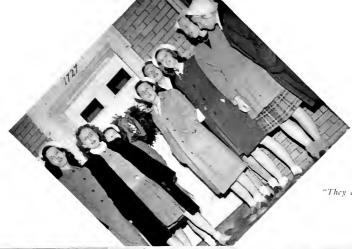

These are the Seniors who heard the echoes of the Class of '45 as they sang of "the glorious spirit of old '46," carried out the new Orientation program, listened on Senior Recognition Day and resolved to "give now, that the season of giving may be yours and not your inheritors." They keep memories of caroling before Christmas, boarding the train and knowing that the next good-by might be the last, the new lollypop-painted rooms in Senior Hall, the bolero of the coke machine, "Blues" and impromptu acts in the smoker, talk and coffee flowing at the Open Hearth. They abandoned jeans and long-tailed shirts for crinoline skirts and powdered wigs to dance the minuet on Washington's Birthday; danced at a peacetime senior prom; and matched pastel formals with roommates and saved ribbons from May Day.

These are the Seniors who followed the tradition of wearing personality cuts and hats to match; brought class blazers to Ward-Belmont; stacked red English books beside The Prophet and Barefoot Boy with Cheek. These are the "Hayseeds" who set the pace of campus life, who were "out for victory" on Senior, Senior-Middle Day. They sang the Senior Song together for the last time at Step Singing, and, standing in the shadow of Pembroke Hall, heard promise in the voices of '47. At graduation they held hopes, memories, and a diploma as they marched from the chapel to "The Bells of Ward-Belmont."

These are the Seniors. What they leave and what they take must of necessity be intangible, for "what is essential is invisible to the eye." Their class will live if the things for which it stood are worthy. That is their hope. These were the Seniors.

Senior-Middle Class

LET'S GIVE A CHEER FOR THE SENIOR-MIDS

WHO have developed from a mass of yellow tags, new fall suits, and bewildered expressions into long-shirted, peroxide-streaked Ward-Belmont Mids with individual personalities and qualities of leadership.

WHO remember alighting from cabs in front of the Academic building to be greeted by hordes of Seniors eager to show them club village, their rooms, and how to open their post office box . . . who tried desperately to remember names during rush week . . . who left hurried packing to sit on the stairs and listen to the Seniors carol at Christmas . . . who cringed at the first sight of Blue Books . . . who dressed in their best formals to dance at the Senior-Mid dance, and as April Showers escorted May Flowers to the Senior-Senior Mid banquet . . . who as Crusaders and Robin Hood's merry men showed spirit and ingenuity on Senior-Senior Middle Day.

HERE is next year's Senior class. This year they stood on the sidelines at Washington's Birthday, May Day, and graduation. Next year they will take their places as Seniors with a resolve to use their spirit, cooperation, and ideals in leaving Ward-Belmont a better school than the one they entered. Let's give a cheer for the Mids of '46 . . . the Seniors of '47.

REVIEWING PREP SENIORS

who made their debut with the rattle of the tin woodman and other Oz characters at the Inter-Hall Party, and took their curtain call in white dresses and roses at graduation; whose atoms were unleased on Junior, Junior-Middle Day, and were fused into tears at the Senior Banquet.

Forgetting about chemistry and English, they dashed to the smoker during "recreation," but were called back by the shout, "Study hall, y' all." In a mad rush from the chapel they fought to form a weaving, chanting line outside the Tea Room. They rolled over when they heard the breakfast bell on Saturday morning and later, in pin curls, and jeans, appeared in Middle March reading their mail and drinking cokes. They introduced prep senior hats. Bouncing to class shouting, "Let it rain, let it rain, let it rain, let it rain"; sharing books, clothes, and money like a huge family; inventing new languages and coining trick phrases . . . they are easily distinguished on campus as one of the most alive and united groups at Ward-Belmont.

"The Junior-Middles stand before you," with ideals and spirits high, personifying the promise of youth.

Boarding Student Council

Built on the fundamental principle that students may best be governed by other students, the Student Council was organized to enforce rules and to make judicious decisions. Sponsored by the Council and directed by Ruth Evans and forty campus leaders, extensive plans for Orientation Week were carried out at the beginning of the year. Another project undertaken this year by the Council in cooperation with Miss Casebier was the publication of a revised handbook for new students.

Ward-Belmont is a community, and as such must have its governing body. The Student Council, by endeavoring to promote justice and integrity, has proven itself worthy of its responsibility and the trust of the students.

Day Student Council

Extremely efficient in all its duties, this organization has again this year distributed its usual number of majors and minors. But, though this is true, the main purpose of the Council is not to punish or to prohibit pleasures. Forming the connecting link between the administration and day students, the Day Student Council strives to promote school spirit and respect for school laws.

Preparatory Boarding Student Council

The Preparatory School Council proves itself a capable and efficient democratic governing body on the Ward-Belmont campus and functions as an interpreter of school rules, passing judgment on the misdemeanors of students. The aim of the Council is not only to build character among Preparatory students, but also to bring them into closer touch with the administration.

We owe to the Y.W.C.A.

thanks for the wonderful gym parties, the hilarious peanut hunt, and the exciting Valentine Banquet, climaxed by the appearance of the long-awaited King and Queen of Hearts.

Officers and members of the cabinet owe to the Y thanks for such memories as their first glimpse of Tennessee mountains in the fall, the thunder of acorns rolling down the roof of a dormitory filled with double-deck beds and Y representatives of other colleges. These things, square dances, and "Do your ears hang low?" will always remind them of their Retreat to the woods.

We owe to the Y.W.C.A. memories of quiet, inspirational vespers in the clubhouses, the evening we learned the Meaning of the Fire, candlelight vespers in Acklen at Christmas, and the Easter sunrise service in the Club Village. Y-sponsored discussion groups deepened our religious tolerance, which is only one instance of the many ways, often inconspicuous, in which the Y.W.C.A. enriches the life of each girl.

The Y.W.C.A.'s influence is broader than campus activities. In service to the community its members planned weekly trips to such places as the Old Ladies' Home, Junior League Crippled Children's Home, Tennessee Orphanage, Thayer Hospital, and Camp Campbell; and in participating in world-wide activities they carried out a clever and original campus campaign for the World Student Service Fund.

From the editor's desk

have come all the fun-packed, memory-packed news-papers, literary magazines, and pages of the annual which we know as publications. Each publication is a secret society; its meeting place the office that changes its name by days of the week; its language a maze of "inches to be filled." "we need snapshots!" and "but it will fill up space"; its diet one of cokes, cigarettes, and hazelnut ice cream; its pride the clock that never runs, the typewriter that skips spaces, and the lights that will never turn on when they are needed; its conscience the N.S.P.A.; and its sister-hood a group of girls with no fingernails, editors' hats, and the luxury of a private phone.

Their "Pub Party" took them into a world where they read encyclopedias, contacted long-neglected men for information, and toured the campus in search of their American conception of British "dives." From this typical literary confusion emerged an imaginative night on which the entire student body went "cockney." drinking cider and eating pretzels, paying tribute to the originality of the staffs as they laughed at the antics of Punch and Judy, wept large tears over "Poor Little Yellow Bird," sang "Tipperary" with Gracie, and applauded "But happy is the day when all of you say, "We liked our Milestones, Hyphen. Chimes today!"

On this editor's desk are laid the first works of collegiate journalists, and from this desk evolves the voice of the campus. The ideas conceived here move to deep dorm discussions and informal chatter in the smoker, from which come those important thoughts which are considered a "part of college."

They put out your annual

on Saturday afternoons while searching for synonyms and calling out votes over the roar of the coke machines, pleading for snapshots and missing lunch to keep dates with the photographer. They suffered cross-examinations in their dorms like five-year-olds sworn to secrecy about their surprises. Feeling professional they discussed type heads with the printer and layouts with the artist. They shared trivial disappointments, the excitement of that first peek at the cover, and poignant relief the day the last piece of copy was rolled from the typewriter. They waited with that feeling that comes when you've packed and know you've left your toothbrush behind until the confusion of pasted layouts and typed copy returned—the MILESTONES.

They put out your annual with the hope that in this book would be crystallized the favorite memories of every girl. If they have saved for you the chimes in the tower, the lost ribbon from your May Day bouquet, and memories of the people who made your school life complete, they will indeed be rewarded for all the lost sleep, the cut classes, the time spent, and the energy consumed in presenting to you the 1946 MILESTONES.

The Hyphen's up!

Saturday morning, and seven hundred twenty-five girls are reading about the latest college fashions according to their own Mademoiselle, the doings of the athletic gals, the idiosyncrasies of the latest concert artist, and the surprising thoughts of their roommates in Inquiring Reporter.

The Hyphen's up, and the staff, who live in a world of Tuesday nights, typewriters, by-lines, headlines, and chasing news stories with a pocketful of fragmentary clues, search blindly for typographical errors.

A newspaper is an integral part of campus life, and to Ward-Belmont girls the Hyphen stands as the crystallization of their thoughts and actions week by week.

These literary geniuses

of the 1946 Chimes staff convened on Monday nights with resolution in their hearts and piles of unread manuscripts in their hands, and ended the evenings in a welter of caustic comments, empty coke bottles, overflowing ashtrays, and the beginnings of a new Chimes. They wrote, read, and elided; set and reset contest dates; and after many discussions and consultations about the size, shape, and color that would make Chimes demand to be read, mentally crossed their fingers for luck and put the book into the hands of the printer.

Chimes presented in its three annual issues the best writing done by Ward-Belmont. A variety of selections ranging in subject matter from an elegy to a favorite earnuff to discussions of world problems formed a kaleidoscopic picture of campus life and maturing thought.

Phi Theta Kappa

Phi Theta Kappa, one of the national organizations on the campus, is an honorary scholastic society open to students in Junior Colleges. Members are initiated twice a year on the basis of scholastic achievement and citizenship. The maintenance of a "B" average is a requirement of membership in this organization, whose purpose is to promote scholarship, develop character, and cultivate fellowship.

This year's project of the Delta Zi chapter at Ward-Belmont was the compilation of a student, faculty, and staff directory entitled, "Who's Where." Also, a precedent was set when twenty-four new members were tapped in the impressive candlelight ceremony February 25.

Members are Harriett Ashbrook, Priscilla Bailey, Susan Bowers, Jane Braley, Jeanne Bryant, Carolyn Buie, Katherine Chesick, Bomar Cleveland, Pat Cooley, Shirley Corrough, Jeanne DeMoss, Katherine Dougher, Selene Elliston, Charlotte Evans, Ruth Evans, Ann Flesher, Elizabeth Gift, Mary Ruth Hale, Barbara Hanson, Nancy Hornaday, Ann Marie Hughes, Joanne Jeans, Sheila Kennard, Jacquelyn Koon,

The German Club combines a flair for entertainment with a more serious study of German customs. This combination was illustrated at the Christmas party when the girls decorated a Christmas tree in the German manner and sang native Christmas carols. At the spring picnic German food was prepared and served. By such activities as these the German language is taken from textbooks and made a living thing.

were all-out as, amid screams and vells from the bleachers, well-matched teams drove through a spirited hockey season which goes down on the scorebook as the most unusual in the history of the school.

Rain and upsets among seeded teams resulted in a series of games which left the Agoras holders of the cup before reaching the semifinals.

ON THE COURTS

competition for the tennis championship began in the fall with the first tennis classes. Fighting to win the cup for her club, Dolly Birckhead, Anti-Pan, defeated "Florida" Faulk, Tri K, in the fall singles matches. Semifinalists were Beverly Teel and Ann Marshall.

Spring saw tennis enthusiasts rising before breakfast to play matches, and excitement ran high on Senior, Senior-Middle Day when the Mids defeated the Seniors to add cherished points to their total score. Victorious Mids were Dolly Birckhead, singles winner, and Nancy Moss and Harriet Ashley, doubles champions.

BOWLING

The bowling alleys are always a popular place for Saturday nights on campus, but during the bowling season practice begins in earnest as each girl tries to perfect the perfect form and accuracy that fills the form sheet with strikes and spares.

Every club enters four girls in the annual bowling tournament, and only the four clubs with the highest scores advance to the finals. This year in a close contest the D. V.'s won the cup, defeating the Tri K's, A. K.'s, and Osirons.

Taking high score honors were Mary Korty (far left picture) and Mary Lena Faulk (center picture) for the college. Patt Wylder was high score bowler for the Preps.

SWIMMING

With a plunge and a splash, Barbara Nelson swam away with top honors at the annual swimming meet. Following in her wake came second-placer Nancy Hornaday, with Betty Rutland a close third. Nancy Peacock's record-breaking plunge, plus the speed and good form of the other Penta Taus, won the cup for their club. In second and third place were the Tri K and Del

Vers Clubs.

Address the target, nock your arrow, release!

ARCHERY

Much to the amazement of all campus wouldbe Robin Hoods, hitting the bull's-eye is not merely a matter of putting arrow to bow and letting go. Long hours of practicing the essentials—stance, aim, and position—are necessary to become consistent hitters such as Carol Cannon, Mary Lou Phelps, and Betty Steed.

"Pill" watches Florida drive a long one

GOLF

Stance, grip, and a clean follow-through—and a golfer's ball will fly straight down the fairway. With these aims in mind, girls in fall and spring golf classes "try, try, again" to perfect their strokes. This year for the first time advanced students spent one afternoon a week at the municipal links where such outstanding golfers as Mary Lena Faulk, Patzie Simonson, Jean Gill, and Peg Clongh shot par or below.

TRACK

Running, jumping, and hurdling are a few of the activities followed by the more energetic students on campus. Endurance-plus is needed for all track work, and these girls have what it takes. A spring track meet in which each club enters its stars featured competition in dashes, relays, broad jump, high jump, and hurdling. Outstanding in these events were Marilyn Flynn, Margaret Petrass, Lea Adair, Pat Waggoner, Betty Asquith, and Gloria Reif.

BASEBALL

Senior, Senior-Mid Day ushered in an exciting season of baseball at Ward-Belmont. The April 27 game was packed with thrills, featuring the pitching of the Senior's "Florida" Faulk, backed by Peggy Loving, Jane Dury, and M. F. Jones. Mid reliables were Pitcher Alma Edmonds, Pat Tanton, and Marilyn Flynn.

The highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Ward-Belmont riding major is to be elected to membership in the Turi and Tanbark Club. In addition to increasing their general knowledge about horses, members put this knowledge into practical application on breakiast rides and trips to the Chicago horse show and the Kentucky Derby. For the first time in several years, Turi and Tanbark furnished a clubroom which served for club meetings and informal gettogethers of riding enthusiasts.

The fall riding season opened with eager beginners who worked hard through dusty days in the ring to present the Fall Riding Show sponsored by Turí and Tanbark. Barbara Allen rode off with top honors, and the cup was presented to the Penta Tau Club. During the winter months riders attended classes on the theory of handling and caring for horses and looked forward to spring with its gaited work and exciting jumping. The climax of the year came with the Twenty-Third Annual Spring Riding Show which featured, in addition to the general classes, exhibitions by advanced students in driving and riding in pairs.

TOPS—Training Offered for Patriotic Service—has, during its few years of existence, become one of the most important organizations on the campus. Sponsored by the Physical Education Department, its purpose is to give each girl training in development of leadership, health, and character.

In addition to the colorful drills presented on special occasions which featured the newly-formed Drum and Bugle Corps under the direction of Miss Jean Ryder, the TOPS managed the infantile paralysis drive and assisted in the Junior League paper sale on campus for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Home.

DANCING

Members of the Ward-Behuont Dance Department, favorite school entertainers, are constantly in demand at all outstanding school events. Choreographer-director, Miss Jean Jones, has on numerous occasions exhibited her own talents, reflected in the accomplishments of her pupils.

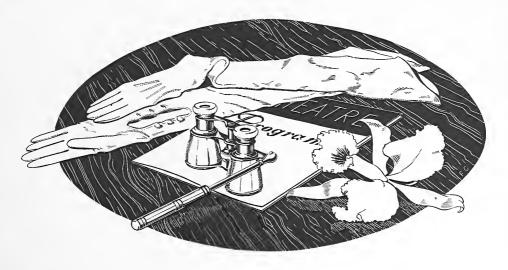

Spectators at the Halloween Banquet, Washington's Birthday, dance recital, and May Day applauded warmly tap, ballet, and modern dance routines. Particularly outstanding work was shown in the original "American Anthology," arranged by Miss Jones and performed by modern dance students for a Dance Festival at Vanderbilt University.

At the end of the year the Tri K's looked back upon the thrill of winning the first semester scholarship cup, the faculty breakfast, the X. L. picnic, and the week-end trip in the spring.

FAG DAY

From very early morning until late afternoon September 27, pandas, howling babies, pirates, and other fantastic creatures irolicked on Ward-Belmont campus. It was Fag Day, the traditional day on which pledges fulfilled the absurd tasks given them by their club sisters.

A stranger looking on would know this to be a special occasion, for only once a year does the campus become a riotous playground at seven o'clock in the morning. Fags scurried to their lig sisters' rooms to wake them by chanting fag songs—"I'm glad to be . . ." Before the pledges could earn a few drops of orange juice served to them in their place of honor, the dining room floor, they made beds, played leap-frog, pushed eggs up the middle walk with their noses, and bowed on bruised knees to the old girls.

After a hard day's work, weary fags staggered down to the clubhouses in the late afternoon to perform their last servile acts as initiates.

INTER-HALL PARTY

The Inter-Hall Party began a spirited year of competition when, with shouts and screams, the Senior "Thoroughbreds" of Pembroke Downs came in lengths ahead of the Preppies from Oz, the "Belles from Hail," the "Founders Flames," and the Fidelity "Westerners." As exciting as all the games of badminton, volleyball, ping-pong, and basketball—the things which brought down the house—were the faculty train and their gay nineties calisthenics.

Senior WEEK

After a week of ceremonies, parties, white dresses, and fried or ken. 1945's Mids officially became the Senior Class of 1946. On Monday of the first week in October "The Bells of Ward-Belmont" accompanied the Seniors' march into the chapel for the traditional Senior Recognition Day. The five-point platform of ambition, knowledge, friendship, generosity, and religion presented by the class officers was accepted by Dr. Bernitse in his programmer of the class.

Provine in his recognition of the class.

A rest from white came Tuesday night, when, in jeans and plaid shirts, the Seniors devoured fried chicken and brownies at their picnic on the athletic field. By the next morning they had regained the dignity of their seniority as they heard Mickie Purcell, speaker for the class, set forth its goal, "To transmit this school not less, but greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

The faculty was entertained with a coffee Thursday night, and on Friday a portrait of Dr. Joseph E. Burk, former president of Ward-Belmont, was presented to the school by the Senior Class, faculty, and alumnae.

When the week's festivities were over, a Senior Class, realizing the responsibilities as well as the glory that came with their standing went forward into a new year.

standing, went forward into a new year.

King and Queen of Hearts

were greeted by gasps of surprise and approval as they marched through the dining room to their throne to reign over the Valentine festivities. Petite Joan Ryerson and popular Florida Faulk were selected by the members of the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet, who arranged the decorations and musical program for the formal dinner.

WASH

INGTON'S Birthday

On February 22 Acklen Hall was filled once more with candlelight and the swish of crinoline as pages and colonial costumed Seniors preceded gracious Carolyn Buie and stately Jane Knabe down the hanging staircase into the dining room for the banquet in their honor. These two girls were selected by the student body for one of the loveliest honors Ward-Belmont can bestow—the privilege of portraying the roles of George and Martha Washington.

Later, before the smiling President and First Lady, students of the Dance Department presented "The March of the Wooden Soldiers" and "Valtz Brilliante."

The events of the evening were climaxed when the Seniors wove again the intricate patterns of the eighteenth century minuet.

Junion-JUNIOR-MIDDLE Day

Preps took the spotlight on April 26 when Juniors and Junior-Mids battled in annual interclass competition. Following a parade which featured the Junior Olympics and the Junior-Mid Wonders from Wonderland, the teams began active combat on the baseball diamond. Sparking the Junior team, Nelson, Sugg, and Durham led the Olympics to a 24-10 victory over the "Wonders."

On the archery range the Juniors continued their winning streak, narrowly defeating the Junior-Mids. Star "archers" were Junior-Mids "Barky" Bible and Lee Boatwright, and Juniors Evelyn Allen and Anne Frederick. The tennis match also ended in triumph for the Juniors when Jean Ward defeated Justine Winn in the singles and Barbara Nelson and Cynthia Mizelle won over Mary Coble and Mary Ellen Coverdale in the doubles.

The climax of the day arrived when, after a picuic in Club Village, Dr. Provine presented the cherished cup to Dot Hailey, president of the Junior Class.

Senion-SENIOR-MIDDLE Day

On April 27 at 7:00, Mids and Seniors burst from their dorms, armed with tape, string, scissors, and trailing decorations to transform the campus into two rival camps; the Mids revealed their crusade against the Senior Sultans and Sheiks of the Arabian Nights.

The crusaders led the parade with "Dickie the Lion Heared," followed by Robin Hood and his Merry Men, characters from the Canterbury Tales, monks, and other famed characters from the Middle Ages. "Make way for the Princess Scherazade!!" and the spectators watched as the Flying Carpet, Ali-Baba, Aladdin, Harem Dancers, and the Sultan Haroun-el-Raschid, flanked by the turbaned team, marched past; a colorful reincarnation of the fabled Arabian Nights.

Pageantry took second place when the determined teams took to the field in the final contests to determine the winner in the year-old class rivalry.

Spurred on by the Mid tennis victory, the Seniors came out ahead in baseball, archery, and a hard-fought water polo contest.

As twilight fell, the Seniors, in the traditional yellow and white and singing the Senior Song, entered Club Village. After the picnic supper Dr. Provine read the points accumulated by the classes in the year's Senior, Senior-Mid events. The jubilant Seniors returned the hard-won cup to Pembroke Hall—a glorious climax to a glorious day.

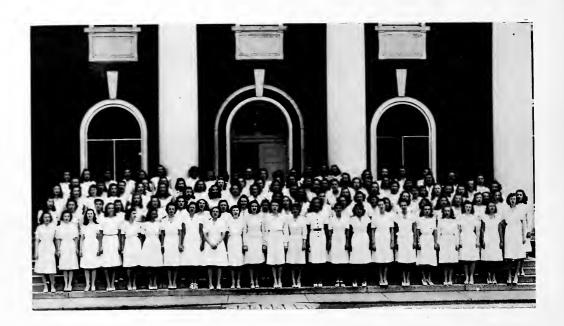

Magnolias, the fluttering ribbons on the May Poles, the riotous color of the folk dances form a springtime backdrop for the May Queen, her attendants, and court of College and Prep Seniors.

Following the procession, came the Queen, Joy Roberts, followed by her preparatory school attendants, Gene Allen Kennedy and Mary Jane Stuckey, college attendants, Emmie Jackson and Mary Graham Hull, and Honor Maid, Betty Asquith—all in two royal coaches. This annual spectacle was witnessed by hundreds of visitors, thrilled by the beauty of May Day from the opening moments to the climax of the celebration; the May Pole dance which wove the bright strands of Ward-Belmont's most striking pageant into a triumphant whole.

May DAY____

"We pledge now our love for our old

With these words the Seniors of 1946 sang goodby to the school, their class, and the girls who will succeed them. As the Senior class sang together for the last time, each girl remembered other songs—"The Senior Class Is Out for Victory," "Shinimini," "The Sheiks of Araby," and "Blues"—the musical milestones of her Senior year. Following the Seniors' tribute to the Mids, the Mids took their places before the white pillars of the Academic Building to sing to the class who had gone before them. As the chimes rang out over the campus, both classes joined in "The Bells of Ward-Belmont." Thus ended one of Ward-Belmont's most cherished traditions and one that will long remain with each girl.

JUNE 4, 1946

As each girl marches from the Academic Building up the walk, past the fountain, under the magnolia trees toward Acklen Hall, the memory of two years comes crowding back with a moment or a group of persons in sharp relief. Walking out with the cherished diploma in hand and searching the crowd for a face and a smile which will reflect what she is feeling, she leaves the chapel for the last time to "The Bells of Ward-Belmont."

Yet graduation is not only a backward glance, but also a look into the future. On June 4 each Senior finds an end and a beginning—an end to the actuality of life at Ward-Belmont and beginning of life which will reflect these experiences, this knowledge, these ideals.
